Course Description

This course is a study of American literature from the Civil War to the present. The course examines the texts and thematic concerns of the literature during this time period. Students define and deconstruct American literature—tracing significant writers who have shaped American cultural history, including women and minorities. The course also addresses varieties of critical approaches to the literature. PREREQUISITE: ENGL C1000, ENGL C1000E, or achieve qualifying score on English Placement. Transfer Credit: CSU; UC. C-ID: ENGL 135. C-ID: ENGL 135.

Course Level Student Learning Outcome(s)

1. Course Outcomes
2. Evaluate literary, historical, social, and/or cultural significance to critically interpret American literature from 1865-present.
3. Interpret artistic and/or historical contributions to American literature by evaluating the stylistic, formal, thematic, and/or rhetorical elements of texts.
4. Examine the relationship between literary works and the literary movement associated with their periods.
5. Compile the major theories of relevant critics in a well developed and scholarly analysis of a subject relevant to the period.
6. Compose a paper synthesizing scholarly sources which augment, strengthen, and complement an original analysis of American literature from 1865-present.
