Instructional Techniques

Class sessions include lectures and discussions, interactive role-playing exercises, guided conversations, tasks in pairs and small groups, listening and note-taking exercises, pronunciation exercises, and multimedia presentations.

Reading Assignments

Students listen to short passages or conversations on topics, take notes, and respond by writing answers to written questions about the passages. Students read passages prior to participation in small-group or whole-class discussions about the material presented.

Writing Assignments

As part of the midterm and final exams, the students listen to short passages and write answers to questions about these passages in complete, original sentences and short paragraphs.

Out-of-class Assignments

Students look up class topics on the Internet, accessing the Coastline Library as needed, and report information on these topics to the class. They read and respond to written narratives, descriptions, and dialogs by completing multiple choice, sentence completion, sentence writing, and paragraph writing exercises.

Demonstration of Critical Thinking

Students watch or listen to commercials to differentiate between facts and opinions. They organize and synthesize information from listening selections to participate in small group discussions.

Required Writing, Problem Solving, Skills Demonstration

Both the midterm and final exams require students to listen to short passages and answer questions about these passages with original paragraphs.
